

MULTIPLY HOPE INITIATIVE

STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIPS, DELIBERATE FOCUS

Executive Summary

Kingdom Capital Fund's Multiply Hope Initiative is a strategic and ongoing initiative of multiplication to support Christ-centered ministries dedicated to empowering local families and children with the hope of the gospel.

The goal is to partner with Christian ministries using our relationships, experience, and funding to proactively address issues facing youth, strengthen families, and cultivate future Christian leaders with a focus on intervention and early childhood programs that offer services to teens in crisis, engaging parents and guardians and equipping them all with the gospel.

Our desire is to exponentially increase partnership resources available for qualifying ministry partners through the use of investment project proceeds, matching donations, and partnership with the local business and church community.

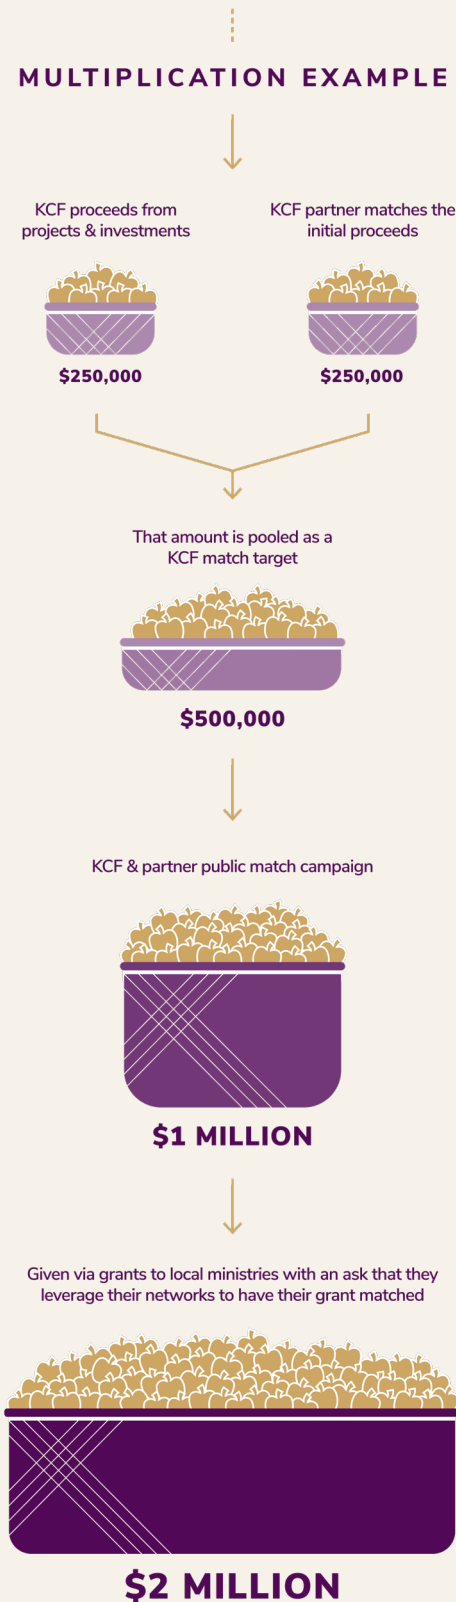

Problem Solving Statement

We're all called to our work.
Kingdom Capital Fund's work is to multiply.

The Multiply Hope Initiative is unique from traditional direct donation. We believe that the best way to transform a community is to develop Christ-centered leaders amongst the next generation. This initiative is designed to preemptively and directly address several present-day issues that include but are not limited to addiction (including social media and pornography), substance abuse, mental health concerns (stress and anxiety), gangs, bullying, human trafficking, suicide, and truancy.

Yet, our aim is subtly different from the current aims of the work of ministries dedicated to addressing these challenges. While theirs is to perform the work they're called to using their time, treasure, and talent, ours is to multiply the time, treasure, and talent to bolster the work of their calling. This mission is based on the Parable of the Talents in Matthew 25:14-30, which highlights good and faithful servants growing what their master entrusts to them.
